

TINA PROCTOR believes watercolor is alive with its own unique personality. To partner with the movement of water and pigment remains her creative motivation and her reward.

After studying advertising art at Central Piedmont College in Charlotte, NC she enjoyed a career in Charlotte as a graphic designer, art director and commercial illustrator while evolving toward fine art. Her work has been published by ad firms, banks, non-profits, newspapers, magazines, corporations and service industries. She exhibited in Charlotte galleries, Charlotte Art League and NC Watercolor Society. For a decade, she managed an award winning design and illustration studio. She is honored to have paintings in private and corporate collections throughout the United States.

In 2017, Tina and her husband moved to Pawleys Island where she quickly became involved in the art community. She is an exhibiting member of the Georgetown County Watercolor Society, serving as Vice President in 2020. Her art has been included in annual shows for Waccamaw Arts & Crafts Guild and Waccamaw Neck Arts Alliance. She continues to be inspired by historic architecture and lowcountry landscapes.
